A MAN LAY DEAD

NGAIO MARSH

WEDNESDAY
JUNE 11TH
10:00 AM

Marsh wrote crime fiction during the "Golden Age of Detective Fiction," along with Agatha Christie and many others. A Man Lay Dead centers around a weekend party at a country house where the entertainment of the day is an elaborate murder game. But this time, one of the guests is actually murdered.

Meets in person and on zoom!

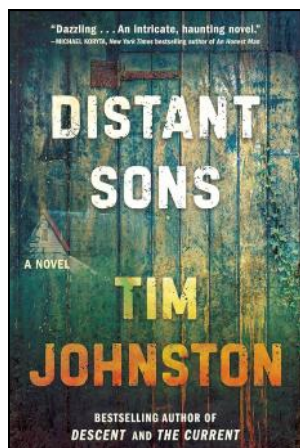

THE QUIET AMERICAN GRAHAM GREENE

THURSDAY
JUNE 19TH
6:00 PM

"I never knew a man who had better motives for all the trouble he caused," the narrator says of Alden Pyle, a brash American idealist who is sent by Washington to Vietnam in the days of the Indo-China War. Fowler, the narrator, is a cynical British reporter with whose mistress, Phuong, Pyle becomes entangled. Greene's The Quiet American raises many questions about morality, religion, colonialism, and the human cost of war.

Meets in person and on zoom!
