THE GOD OF THE WOODS LIZ MOORE

WEDNESDAY
OCTOBER 8TH
10:00 AM

It is 1975, and an empty bunk at camp starts a panicked search for a 13-year-old girl, who's brother disappeared in the same manner fourteen years before. The girl is the daughter of the Van Laar family, which supports many jobs in this working-class community. Booklist calls The God of the Woods a "compulsively readable novel that will appeal to fans of mysteries..."

BRAVE NEW WORLD ALDOUS HUXLEY

THURSDAY
OCTOBER 16TH
6:00 PM

"O brave new world, that has such people in't," Shakespeare said in The Tempest. Published in 1932, Huxley's version of a brave new world is his dystopian novel set in a future World State, where citizens are engineered into an intelligence-based social hierarchy. Much of the novel presents prescient thoughts still relevant today, almost a century later.
